REPORT COVERS OPERATION OF PUBLIC WORKS DEPT. FOR CITY

Editor's Note: The following is a continuation of a report submitted last week by Leslie Kerr of the taxation and revenle subcommittee of the committee for Campbell incorporation. Kerr covers operation and suggestions for the public works department for the proposed city of Campbell.

Text of the report follows:

The next summary is a detailed accounting classification as used by the State Controller in making official reports to indicate that portion of city expenses known as "Streets."

Statement covers cost experience of five recently incorporated cities which did not receive any revenue from property taxes during first year of city operation.

Differentiation is made in expenses to separately indicate costs of first, second, and third year operations.

The next summary was compiled to show monies received by eleven recently incorporated cities from the State of California through "subventions and grants." Only those cities with a full 3-year experience were selected.

In this connection it will be noted that the aggregate receipts amounted to $393,236 and the expenditures for street maintenance was $187,575. Further attention is invited to receipts and disbursements of the individual cities, more especially such cities as Coachella, Galt, Guadalupe and Kerman.

BUILDING INSPECTOR

The need for a city building inspector will depend on the volume of construction going on within the city limits of Campbell and on the regulations, if any, which the city council of Campbell chooses to adopt.

Costs of inspection would ordinarily be paid from fees collected for this service. Yet, until such time as this service requires the full-time occupation of a separate employee, these fees could and should be utilized for payment of other operating expenses.

There appears to be no logical reason why city expenses could not be reduced to extent of around $2,500 or more annually by combining the building inspection duties with duties of some other more essential position, for the present, at least.

The duty of making inspections could be assigned to the superintendent of streets, or to the chief of police, or to whatever position the city council determined as the most advantageous and economical. But, inasmuch as there is little likelihood that the street department will be very active for some time after beginning of city operations, it might be advisable to designate the street superintendent as temporary inspector.

If the person selected to act as building inspector is not sufficiently experienced to make plumbing and electrical inspections, these features could be handled thusly:

(1) Contract for the intermittent inspection work with the inspection department of Santa Clara County or another nearby city, or,

(2) Employ a qualified firm or individual not interested in building construction within the city limits of Campbell.

If housing for new residences of Campbell is provided at the expected rate of about 60 family units annually for the next two years, revenue from fees for building, plumbing, and electrical permits should be substantial. The fees in total should approximate not much more than the total cost of the inspection services. As a result, this item, on both sides of the budget, should be approximately self-balancing, and if construction work does not reach the estimated level, city expense for inspection would be correspondingly lower.

In the event that the regularly employed city forces can also perform the inspection functions without serious interference with regularly assigned duties, then the city should accordingly realize a profit.

SANITATION

The area proposed for inclusion as the city of Campbell includes the Campbell Sanitary District and a portion of Sanitary District No. 4.

The tax rate of 1950-51 for district No. 4 was $0.23 and it is included in the county tax rate. Separate tax bill is rendered by the Campbell district. The rate for same period was $0.70 per $100 of assessed value of land and improvements. A portion of this revenue is used to reduce bonded indebtedness.

The assessed valuation of the Campbell district includes:

Item	Property owners	Utility holdings	Total
Land	$ 490,335	$ 12,940	$ 503,275
Improvements	1,880,780	178,860	2,059,640
Personal property	722,190	86,940	809,130
Total	3,093,305	278,740	3,372,045

A superficial study of the sanitation problem indicates that there is no apparent reason for making any comment at this time. The matter is held in abeyance awaiting action of the incoming city council.

The proposed budget allowance of $5,000 may or may not be necessary.

The next summary is a detailed accounting classification as used by the State of California in making official reports to indicate that portion of costs of city operating expenses known as "Street," "Sanitation and promotion of cleanliness," and "Recreation."

This statement covers cost experience of four Santa Clara County cities during fiscal year ending June 30, 1950. It is divided into three parts to show expense incurred on account of maintaining (1) streets; (2) sanitation; and, (3) facilities for public recreation.

PLANS SET FOR INCORPORATION MEETING AT HIGH SCHOOL MONDAY

Forrest Reese, secretary of the Campbell Chamber of Commerce, has been named moderator of the general meeting on incorporation to be held in the high school auditorium at 8 p.m. on Monday, October 8. The meeting, sponsored by the committee for Campbell incorporation, will feature speakers for and against the proposition. Chosen to speak for the proponents are Leslie Kerr, member of the taxation and revenue sub-committee of the general committee, and Don Reinohl of the boundary committee.

To date, no speakers have been selected to represent the opposition. L. W. Harmon stated that a sincere attempt is being made to locate speakers for the opposition, but to date, no one has signified their willingness to speak. He stated, however, that he anticipated selection of opposition speakers before the meeting Monday. Anyone interested in speaking for the opposition should contact L. W. Harmon at Campbell 3335.

L. W. Harmon, chairman of the general committee, announced that the meeting is being held to acquaint residents of the Campbell area with arguments for and against Campbell incorporation. "We hope that as many of the members of the community as possible will attend this meeting," he said. "Our purpose is to give all the known facts, both for and against incorporation, so that the voters may be able to cast an intelligent and informed vote in the incorporation election." Attorneys will be present to answer questions pertaining to legal matters connected with the incorporation.

Rules for the mass meeting are as follows:

1. A total of two speakers for each side with a limit of 30 minutes for each speaker. 2. A question and answer period will be held after all the speakers have finished their talks. 3. Each person who wishes to ask a question must rise and be recognized by the moderator, giving his name. 4. All questions must be directed either to one of the speakers or to the legal counsel present. 5. If he deems it advisable, the moderator may refer a question to one of the attorneys even if the question was originally addressed to a speaker. 6. No overall time limit will be set on the meeting.

L. W. Harmon stated that the rules were issued in order to insure an orderly and well regulated meeting. "In all fairness to both sides, we have issued a set of rules governing the meeting which we feel will give the most people the opportunity to ask questions and gain the information which they seek. We wish to have an orderly meeting in which both sides may clearly present their arguments."

Harmon urged all residents of the area to attend the meeting, stating that the matter of incorporation was an issue which vitally affected all the members of the community. "We want the residents to come prepared to ask questions. We want to give the people all the information on incorporation, both for and against, so that each individual will have a chance to make up his own mind and not be influenced by rumors or what some one 'thinks' will happen."

In other developments on the incorporation scene. A spokesman for the general committee announced that the validity of petitions calling for a special election are now being checked. While the petitions are being checked for validity and assessed valuation, circulators are continuing to sign additional names as a safety margin.

Santa Clara City Annexation Move

The Santa Clara City Trustees voted unanimously Monday night to abandon strip annexation moves which threatened to split portions of the Campebll school districts.

The move followed what appeared to be final action by the trustees in following their "stop San Jose" movement. The trustees refused to take action halting its annexation of two separate road strips north and west of San Jose city limits. Annexed by the refusal to take action were Kifer Road from Southern Pacific right-of-way to its intersection with San Jose City Limits, and a road strip including Homestead Road from Santa Clara City Limits to Lawrence Road and along Lawrence Road to Stevens Creek Road, along Stevens Creek Road to its intersection with Winchester Road.

Rotarians Hear Talk On Radio

Gordon Graham, manager of radio station KXRX, told members of the Campbell Rotary Club of some of the problems and results of the 31 years during which radio has been in existence. "Although radio is 31 years old," he told his audience, "it is still considered a new industry."

Graham stated that the greatest number of radio listeners are made up of women and added that the women of the family do most of the buying. "The largest users of radio time are the soap companies with their 'soap operas'."

He told of the different types of radio broadcasting, citing the newscast, musical programs, dramatic programs, sport events, and comedies. "One thing we have learned in radio business is to be careful not to specialize too finely," Graham said. KXRX plays mostly musical programs, he told club members.

In mentioning the TV-radio conflict, Graham stated that during the year 1950, 13 million radio sets were sold while the total number of television sets was 7 million. "Much has been said regarding color television, but we don't expect it to make its appearance for from three to five years."

Graham called the commercial "the pause that depresses."

The Campbell Rotary, and Lions clubs will hold a joint meeting October 30 in the Campbell Country Woman's clubhouse. The evening meeting will follow a sports night theme.

An announcement was made that the Crusade for Freedom has been extended for another week.

NO WORD FROM MISSING GIRL

Betty Allen, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. J. Allen of 149 Dillon, is still missing since her disappearance on September 24. The girl's mother reports that she has received no word from Betty, who left a note saying that she was taking a position as companion to an elderly woman. The girl stated in the note that she would write her mother.

The sheriff's office reports that no word has been heard on an all-points bulletin issued last week. They report that neighbors saw the girl enter a cab on the morning of September 24 and located the driver who stated that he picked up a girl answering Betty Allen's description and took her to the Campbell bus depot. He said that the girl told him she was going to San Jose to stay with some friends for a few days before going on to San Diego to take a position as companion to an elderly woman. Girl friends of the missing girl stated that they had not seen her since a few days before her disappearance. Her mother states that she had only $18 with her.

Mrs. Allen said that her daughter had been feeling moody for several months following attempts by her husband, Thermon Herrill, 18, of Campbell, to annul their marriage.

The girl had left school following spring semester. She was a junior at Campbell High School. Mrs. Allen said that the girl had expressed dissatisfaction with her parents' request that she return to school. She was not employed at the time of her disappearance.

OVER $1,000 IN CONTRIBUTIONS REPORTED IN FUND CAMPAIGN

With only three out of more than 15 teams reporting, contributions to the Community Service Fund Drive in the business district of Campbell totaled more than $1,000 at the end of the week.

No totals are yet available in the residential drive which started Monday night with a kick-off dinner in the high school cafeteria. Speakers for the evening included E. W. Barnes, C. P. Klassen, and representatives of the various organizations benefiting from the drive. Methods of approaching contributors were discussed and area coordinators were instructed in the manner in which to handle their respective areas. Materials were also handed out to the various coordinators to distribute among their teams of workers. Plates for 45 persons were reserved at the dinner.

The Campbell area has been broken down into various units for the $14,000 Community Service Fund Drive with unit coordinators appointed to head teams of volunteer workers in each area.

Organizations which will benefit by this year's drive are the library, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, YMCA, Visiting Nurses Association and the Family Service Association.

All workers in the drive are unpaid volunteers with approximately 99 percent of all money collected going directly to the benefit of local groups. The only expense is a small amount for office supplies and secretarial work.

Eugene W. Barnes, general chairman of the drive, stated that he anticipates completion within the next two weeks.

The drive has been broken into business and residential solicitations with a kick-off breakfast marking the beginning of business solicitations two weeks ago.

Beverly Olson Leads Contest For Queen Of Campbell Harvest Festival

Beverly Olson, queen candidate sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, is leading the contest for Queen of the Festival with 1602 votes. Marlene Strong, sponsored by the American Legion, holds second place with a total of 1239 votes and Marialice Grim, sponsored by the St. Lucy's Men's Club, is third with a total of 1033 votes. Mrs. Josephine Biller, clerk of the festival committee, made a preliminary check of the votes Wednesday night. Votes are given at participating merchants' stores at the ratio of one vote for each dollar purchase.

A. J. Emery, festival chairman, warned contestants and merchants that any irregularity which might be discovered in either handing out votes by the merchants or in collecting them by queen candidates would automatically disqualify the contestant in question. "We intend that this contest shall be run according to the rules set up and any deviation from them will result in the disqualifying of the contestant in question."

Emery announced that in cases of large purchases of $100 or more, the merchant making the sale may attach to one of the votes a note stating that it represents votes equal to the purchase. The note must, however, be signed by either the manager of the store or bear the stamp of the store. For example, a merchant giving votes for a purchase of $312 would attach a note to one of the votes explaining the amount of the purchase and stating that the one ticket represented 312 votes. Emery stated that the arrangement was made to save the merchant time in counting large numbers of votes and to eliminate chances of error in handing out votes.

Harold Estensen, chairman of the merchant's committee of the chamber of commerce, will crown the winning contestant at coronation ceremonies to be held Friday night.

To date, eight organizations have entered nine booths for the festival with negotiations under way for the addition of several more. Organizations with booths are Veterans of Foreign Wars (two booths), American Legion, Orchard City Grange, St. Lucy's Men's Club, Community Service Club, Military Order of Cooties, San Tomas Parent-Teachers Association and the Footlighters. Organizations interested in entering booths should contact Mrs. Charles Chubb, secretary of the festival committee at Campbell 3002.

The festival, sponsored by the committee for Campbell Incorpor-

OCT. 1-8 NATIONAL NEWSPAPER WEEK; GROWTH OF A FREE PRESS OUTLINED

The desire and need of people to learn the ideas and happenings of their community, their nation and the entire civilized world is as old as, perhaps older than, known history. In early times town criers walked the streets of the communities calling out items of local interest and government proclamations, runners carried dispatches from war fronts and other centers of important activity, and ballad singers wandered through the lands giving poetical reports of personal tragedies and humorous bits of gossip from the courts of the nobility.

Gradually businessmen began to realize that keeping up with the news was vital to their prosperity. Exports and imports were affected by the current state of international relations, a storm at sea might sink a cargo ship and bankrupt a creditor overnight — or the king's costume at a grand ball might create the demand for a new clothing fashion.

It became common practice for travelers abroad to write newsletters to their employers or friends at home, telling them of events that would affect business, and for the friends to keep the travelers informed of conditions on the home front. Business houses set up private systems of communications with individuals and companies in other countries. One prosperous banking house, the Fuggers of Augsburg, became internationally famous for its detailed and accurate letters.

In England businessmen began discussing and exchanging their news letters when they gathered at the popular coffee houses in the various cities. Always the demand was for more and better news.

STRUGGLE BEGINS FOR FREEDOM TO PUBLISH

Johannes Gutenberg invented the printing process about 1450, thereby introducing printing into Western culture, and it was almost inevitable that this invention should be used to facilitate the distribution of news. But the path from invention of the process to the first printed newsletters was not a short or an easy one.

The political leaders of Europe feared the printing press because it was an inexpensive and quick way to spread ideas and information that could be dangerous to their power. Governments carefully controlled the number of presses, and restricted their use. Some religious documents were published, but the presses were used mainly for the convenience of the governments themselves.

In England, printed newsbooks, called corantos, made their appearance in the early seventeenth century. At first they were printed in Holland and smuggled into England. The corantos, which contained nothing but foreign news, were followed a few years later by the diurnals, which reported the happenings in Parliament, and other domestic news. Most of these publications were illegal, although a few were licensed, and censored, by the government.

With the struggle between Parliament and King Charles I, the press took its first steps toward influencing public opinion by discussing controversial issues. Restrictions against printing were relaxed since both sides were anxious to present their arguments to the public. Many periodicals sprang up, some defending the monarchy, and others supporting Parliament. This period of relative freedom was short-lived, however. for when Cromwell became Lord Protector in 1649, he immediately suppressed all publications except one he personally sponsored.

The Restoration brought back licensing, and a few newspapers were established. The first of these, in 1665, was the Oxford Gazette, later called the London Gazette, which is still being published.

JOURNALISTS DEFY LICENSING LAWS

The Gazette, and others like it, did not—in fact could not—publish anything contrary to the policies of the government. But other publications were brought out illegally from time to time. Some publishers were caught and punished, but still illegal printing continued. The idea of a free press, which received its first encouragement in the Parliament-Royalist dispute, continued to grow. Because of public sympathy with the cause, and political expediency, there were short periods when the licensing laws were not enforced. It was not until 1695 that licensing disappeared in England, however.

While this was a major victory for the press, newspapers were still bound by severe laws of seditious libel which forbade any criticism of the government or its officials, however much justified by facts such criticism might be. The fight against these libel laws was carried on by the press in the American colonies as well as in England, but it was another century before the concept of freedom of the press, as we know it today, became established in law.

Although the first press was brought to the American colonies in 1638, its use was restricted much as were the early presses in England. It was not until 1690 that the first newspaper in America, Publick Occurrances, was published Boston by Ben Harris. This one-page newspaper about the size of a sheet of letter paper today, ran only one issue ,and was immediately suppressed. It had been published without authority from the governor of the colony, and it even criticized the policies of the government! Such impudence was not to be tolerated in seventeenth century America.

It was not until fourteen years later that a second newspaper appeared, the Boston News Letter, which was a licensed publication for which all stories had to be approved by government officials.

CENSORSHIP MEETS FIRST MAJOR OPPOSITION

The first periodical which made a telling stand against government control and censorship was the New England Courant, first published in Boston in 1721 by James Franklin, with the assistance of his younger brother, an apprentice printer by the name of Benjamin Franklin.

In the very first issue James instituted a strong and fearless editorial policy in his paper. He wrote stinging editorials against the practice of smallpox inoculation then being advocated by government officials. His paper also carried essays on political theories then being advanced by such "radicals" as Cato and Addison and Steele. Of course he finally was arrested and forbidden to publish without previous censorship, but the paper went on as before, except that 17-year-old Ben Franklin was now listed as publisher.

The brothers eventually fell out on matters of policy, and the paper was discontinued, but while it was published, it remained a fearless champion of the right of free comment, and formed the roots of a tradition which was to grow in America into today's concept of a free press.

Adding to that tradition immeasurably was the trial of Jon Peter Zenger in New York a few years later. Zenger started publication of the New York Weekly Journal in 1733, and from the start he set his editorial policy against the tyrannical Governor Crosby. Arrested for seditious libel in 1734 and held in jail for nearly a year before his trial, he nevertheless managed to get instructions to his wife and shop assistants, and the Journal was published regularly during his imprisonment.

RIGHTS OF FREE MEN ISSUE

When Zenger was brought to trial in 1735, the jury was instructed, as was the law of the time, that they could decide only whether certain articles had been published in the Journal. It was up to the court to decide whether these articles constituted libel. But during the trial the defense attorney, Andrew Hamilton, argued eloquently against the logic of such a situation. He defended the right of the people to complain against the abuse of power. Liberty was asserted to be the only bulwark against power, and the Zenger case was made the cause of all free men.

The jury deliberated for only ten minutes and brought in a verdict of "not guilty." The law of seditious libel was not changed by their decision, but the trial laid the groundwork for its change later. The Zenger trial brought the need of freedom of expression to the attention of the American people, not for the moment, but for all time.

After the American Revolution, only once was the right of freedom of the press seriously questioned in this country. In 1798 the Alien and Sedition Acts, passed by the Federalists, were aimed at editors who were critical of the government. Arguments by both the Republican and Federalist papers had been fiercely vituperative, couched as they were in the strong language then common to controversial writings in the United States.

By the laws of 1798 the Federalists sought to deport opposing editors who were aliens, and jail those who were citizens. The acts were so unpopular that they were enforced only in a few cases, however. In fact, it is believed to be the unpopularity of the Alien and Sedition Acts which brought about the defeat of the Federalists in the next election, when Republican Thomas Jefferson became President. At any rate, the laws were allowed to expire on March 3, 1801, the day before Jefferson took office.

Since that time the Anglo-American concept of freedom of the press has become so firmly established in the English-speaking countries that it is taken almost for granted. It is hard for people to realize that freedom of the press was won only after a courageous two-century struggle, when it has been the common practice for 150 years for newspapers to publish all the news freely and without restraint, and to comment editorially on the pros and cons of actions taken by private individuals and organizations and by local, state and national governments.

Unfortunately, this freedom of the press which is accepted as a natural state of affairs by Anglo-Americans, is not widespread in the world. Some South American and European countries have a relatively free press, and in others it is beginning to emerge, but nowhere does it have the strength and tradition it has in the English-speaking nations. Beyond the iron curtain, the press has been stifled to where it is now but a mouthpiece of the Communist party. Correspondents from foreign nations are not welcomed, and only recently, Bill Oatis, an Associated Press correspondent and an American citizen, was imprisoned in Czechoslovakia for filing objective news reports of Communist government. In Argentina, the free press was also eradicated when the Peron regime silenced the great democratic newspaper, La Prensa.

In America, the development of freedom of the press has gone hand-in-hand with the other personal freedoms which we now enjoy. In fact, the press has always been an invaluable watchdog over our freedoms. The press accomplishes a vital service for democracy. By helping to inform the citizens of the country on current issues, the newspapers prepare their readers to vote more intelligently.

Legion Convention Blasts Communism

By REX KABER

The 33rd annual convention of the American Legion, Department of California which was held at San Diego Sept. 9 to the 13 was attended by delegates from Campbell Post 596, Guy W. Smith and Rex A. Kaber. Mr. Smith served on the State Rehabilitation Committee and Mr. Kaber on the staff of the Sargeant-at-Arms.

Sunday the Legionnaires were entertained in Tijuana by a parade in their honor and numerous sports events.

The first business session was called to order in the Balboa Bowl, Balboa Park on Monday morning. Addresses of welcome were given by Legionnaires Mayor John D. Butler of San Diego and Frank Gibson, Chairman of the San Diego County Board of Supervisors. Legionnaire Earl Warren, Governor of California received a tremendous ovation as he arrived, escorted by the Oakland Police Motorcycle team, members of his own post. Governor Warrens address delt mostly with preparedness and with combating the Communist menance.

The annual convention parade was held Monday afternoon and was 3 hours long. The parade was very colorful with the numerous musical organizations and drill teams.

Noticeably missing in the parade was the air of frivolity which in the past has prevailed in Legion parades. This was true with the crowds that thronged the streets and the business sessions of the convention. In the present situation all fun was dropped for serious consideration of the county's survival.

The American Legion is on the top of the Communist list for liquidation when and if the Reds ever take over. Most of the business of the convention dealt with handling of subversive organizations and sympathizers. Words and names were not spared Mr. Roy Simpson, State Superintendent of Instruction, who was present at the convention was thoroughly taken to task by State Senator Jack Tenney and National Executive Committeeman Harry L. Foster for the conditions that prevail in certain colleges with red front groups and the laxity of enforcing the loyalty oath.

The honors went to the Oakland Police Motorcycle Drill team for both parade competition and Drill competion. Memory Post of San Jose lost in final competition to the Wilmington post Drum and Bugle Corps. The Spanish Dons from Half Moon Bay carried off all the prizes in drill team competition.

John Homes of Los Angeles was elected State Commander on the third ballat and in the closest race ever recorded in California Legion Conventions. Father Redmond of Fresno won over Rev. Edwards of Palo Alto the office of Chaplain 1881 votes to 1880. The 1952 convention will be held in Fresno.

Other activities which were stressed at the convention were the rehabilitation of veterans, including the Korean war veterans, and the abolition of the dope traffic, especially the juvenile traffic.

Commission OK's PG&E Increase

The State Public Utilities Commission granted the Pacific Gas & Electric Co. a permanent $16,000,000 system-wide rate increase in natural gas rates Tuesday. New rates, to go into effect October 24 would mean an average rate increase of 8.1 percent for Campbell users.

Folowing approval of the raise, the PUC hinted that further increases might be forthcoming. The El Paso Natural Gas Co., which sells gas to the PG&E Co., has a petition pending before the Federal Power Commission requesting increased rates. The PUC stated that their approval of the rate increase by the PG&E does not include possible increase in PG&E rates from the El Paso source. The PG&E Co. could apply for additional increases to cover any added costs which might be so incurred.

EL QUITO TRACT WOMEN MEET TO STIMULATE COMMUNITY INTEREST

Approximately twenty women of El Quito Park met in the home of Mrs. Jane Hendon, 18564 Paseo Tierra, on September 27 to discuss plans for the formation of a club to promote civic consciousness, and the devolpment of community spirit in the tract.

Mrs. Hendon, who is sponsoring the formation of the group, stated that she hopes to interest fathers of the area in forming a Dad's Club. "For too long," Mrs. Hendon said, "the Quito Park area has been just a place to live. We get our mail from Saratoga, and our phone service from Campbell and yet we belong to neither community." She said that she hopes the group will make Quito Park a better community by making it something to talk about.

Plans for the future call for the creation of recreational facilities for the children of the area, formation of a young people's club and the general stimulation of community spirit.

Mrs. Hendon, who moved to the Quito Park tract a year ago, is a former resident of San Francisco and a member of the California Club. She formerly broadcast her own radio program and appeared on many other programs.

Mrs. Hendon stated that she doesn't wish to take office in the club but would rather act in an advisory capacity and allow the younger members of the community to take a greater part. "This club is not intended as a social organization but as an organization to promote better community spirit and to give the residents of the area something to talk about.

She stated that she hopes the club will start with weekly dues of around 10 cents and build it into an accumulative fund.

"I know that what we plan will take a long time, but if the residents of the community really get behind the effort, there is no end to what we can accomplish."

Another meeting will be held October 4 in the home of Mrs. Guy Boltz of 12621 Bucknall Road. Arrangements have been made to care for children of those attending at all future meetings.

Freedom Drive Is Extended

The Campbell division of the nation wide Crusade for Freedom has been extended into October because promotion material for the drive was late in arriving in the area. The drive is sponsored each year in an effort to gain funds to finance operation and construction of radio stations broadcasting to nations behind the Iron Curtain. Funds from this year's drive will go toward building a radio station to broadcast to the people of Czechoslovakia.

Bill Maderis, local chairman of the drive, stated that he wished to extend his thanks to all the contributors and especially to the committee chairmen: Fred Jones, Jr., Leonard Baptist, Larry Hill, Cliff Cassiday, and to the VFW Auxiliary and the American Legion Auxiliary for their booths in town. Approximately $157 has been collected to date.

HEARING SET ON TILSON APPEAL

The Santa Clara County Board of Supervisors this week ordered hearings on an appeal by Subdividers Tilson and Sanfillipo for rezoning of property on the corner of Quito road and Saratoga road for later in October. The subdividers had previously been refused petition for rezoning of a three acre triangle at that location for a business center. Hearing was set for October 29 at 2 p.m. This is the third appeal the pair have made on denials of rezoning by the planning commission.

School Traffic Patrol Guards Students' Safety

Rising school enrollments mean headaches to teachers and administrators, but Campbell Grammar School's student traffic patrol is relaxing slightly this year because of it.

Last year a patrol of 75 boys was necessary to control traffic at school crossings. This year, because children on double session do not travel back and forth at lunch time, the patrol uses only about 49 members.

The job, however is carried on with traditional efficiency. Captain is John Haliwell, who, like other members was taught his work last spring by the graduating patrol. All boys are eighth graders.

The boys in yellow caps are on duty at five school crossings. At the Winchester Rd. and Campbell Ave. intersection, rated one of the busiest in the county, they assist a paid member of the State Highway Patrol.

Many motorists are not aware of the patrol's authority. The students may take down license numbers of drivers who disobey signals and, turn them over to the State Highway Patrol.

Difficulties with students are handled in a more direct manner. Violators are charged and brought before the school traffic court which meets weekly. The case is heard by a student jury. Punishment of those judged guilty may be handed out by the students, or the pupil may be sent to vice-principal Neal Royer who supervises the work of the patrol.

Royer is proud of the good job his boys do. Last week he took several good workers to a football game as a partial reward for efforts. The student body attitude toward the patrol is reflected in his remark that biggest difficulties come from passing motorists and not from the pupils.

Cypress School Job Let To S. J. Firm

Opening of bids for the Cypress Avenue School Thursday evening revealed that Samuel Barth of San Jose, had submitted the low figure of $339,349.00.

Other bidders vyeing for the construction job were Nicholson & Barnhart, George Bianchi, E. A. Hathaway, William Horstmeyer, W. R. Kalsched and N. A. Lamb.

The low bid was 30 percent above estimate according to the school board. Barth's bid will be submitted to the Department of Finance in Sacramento for acceptance. Construction is expected to begin following the official approval in Sacramento.

Cypress Avenue School will be the first of the new school plants to get under way as the result of a bond issue approved by the voters last year.

The Cypress structure will consist of eleven classrooms, a kindergarten, multi-use room, administration unit and maintenance rooms.

Planners Veto Severo Request

The County Planning Commission turned down an appeal by Antone and Teresa Severo to rezone property located on the northwest side of the Santa Clara-Los Gatos Road south of Budd Ave. from a residential zone to commercial zone. The Severo's had planned to erect a grocery store and fruit and vegetable stand. The commission stated that the move constituted "spot zoning" and it was definetly against their policy to approve of such measures. In addition, they stated that opposition by residents of the area made the denial the most feasible action. Severo stated that he had not yet decided to appeal the move or abide by the decision of the commission.

In other business Wednesday, the commission approved a petition of the American Homes Development Company to rezone to residential property, land located on the easterly side of Quito Road between Paseo Oramas and the Southern Pacific Railway tracks; approved application of J. M. Dahl for use permit to construct a service station on property located on the northerly side of the intersection of North Union Avenue and San Jose-Los Gatos Road; approved the site of a new school for the Moreland School District on the westerly side of White Road and Rincon Avenue.

The commission also took under advisement a petition by Carbone and Parlato to reclassify property located on the easterly side of Santa Clara-Los Gatos Road between Hamilton Avenue and Rosemary Lane and property on the northeasterly corner of Santa Clara-Los Gatos Road and Rosemary Lane to a commercial zone. The planners wished to study widening of the highway to be involved in construction at that point. The pair are planning a shopping center.

Driving 2 Morris Minors 48 hours on the Great Highway
Bay Area motorists discover Britain's favorite way of motoring —"in the big little cars"

Back and forth they went in a smart Morris Convertible, a snug Morris Saloon—to test what the English really have in their best small cars. In all kinds of traffic. For 48 straight hours. The results?

MORRIS SALOON
47.4 miles per gallon of fuel
1 pint of oil consumed in 1409 miles

MORRIS CONVERTIBLE
42.3 miles per gallon of fuel
No oil consumption in 1510 miles

Not on premium grade, but regular Shell gasoline. And Shell X 100 motor oil. An average gasoline and oil cost of six-tenths of a cent per mile!

But the BIG story is in the amazing comfort of that 48-hour ride in small cars. Read what the Road Test drivers, not professionals but ordinary Bay Area people like yourself, say about Morris comfort and performance.

To most Americans, driving a Morris for the first time is sheer joy. You have a feeling of oneness with your car. You like it. Yet the Morris has surprising leg and elbow room. It rides like a much bigger car. Has many of the big cars' features.

But please don't take our word for all this. Come in—get behind the wheel! Feel this little Britisher go for you! And you for it!

WHAT TEST DRIVERS SAY

"I had never driven in a mileage test before; in fact I drove pretty much in my regular style in all that traffic. Still the Morris averaged better than 42 miles per gallon."
Mrs. Ann K. Berg, 1570 - 5th Ave., San Francisco

"I was surprised how roomy and comfortable the Morris is. It steers and rides like any big car."
Wm. H. French, 3314 Farnum, Oakland

"The Morris handled beautifully. It was my first long trip in a British car, and believe me I AM SOLD."
Miss Barbara Bliss, 504 Jefferson Ave., San Francisco

"The 4 cylinder Bulldog engine in the Morris I drove ran like a watch for the 48 hours. The English build marvelous cars."

Bear Hunters Set For October 13

One of the most rugged of all outdoor sports—bear hunting—becomes legal in most of California one-half hour before sunrise, Saturday, October 13.

November 1 is the opening date in Siskiyou, Trinity, Shasta, Lassen, Modoc and Plumas counties, with both seasons closing December 31. There is no closed season or bag limit in Del Norte, Humboldt and Mendocino counties.

Two bears is the bag limit for the 80-day season, while only one bear may be taken in the six-county late season area.

According to the Department of Fish and Game, bears may be taken with firearms or bow and arrow. Trapping is prohibited. During open deer hunting seasons, hunters may use only one dog in taking bears or deer or both.

Bucs Dumped By Lions In Opener

The Lincoln Lions held off a final period drive by Campbell gridders to take the initial tilt of the 1951 season, 13-12. Failure to make the extra point on their two TDs spelled defeat for the locals as Namba's kick was low on both attempts.

The Lions scored on the second play of the game when Lion Tailback Bob Isaacson broke through the Buc center, cut left and romped 61 yards into the end zone. Ikeda's kick for the extra point was wide.

A Lincoln recovery of a Buc fumble on the Campbell 22 set up the next score for the Lions. Isaacson went for seven and Ikeda clipped off two, but a penalty drove the Lions back to the Buc 27. A fourth down pass from Isaacson to End Dick Lewis set the Lions up in scoring position again. Two plays later, Bob Lima cracked over for the second score. Ikeda's kick was true to give the Lions a 13-0 lead.

With two minutes remaining in the first half, Buc Halfback Tom Rhodes intercepted a pass by Isaacson and romped from the Lion 45 all the way down to the 22. Two tries by Big Bill Gregg advanced the pigskin to the eight. Jim Namba stormed to the one, and Rhodes went into paydirt for the first Buc score. Namba's kick was low and the score at half time stood at 13-6.

In the fourth period, Rhodes returned a punt to the Lion 20. Namba carired one into the end zone but a penalty nullified the score and set the Bucs back on the Lion 20. Quarterback Larry Sutton tossed a pass to End Bob Banks for the TD. Namba's kick for the extra point was again low.

Buc football coach Jim Muir said he was pleased with the play of the locals, but stated he is planning lots of drill on downfield blocking and ball handling. "We are going to prevent the reoccurence of any more of those costly fumbles. The boys seemed to have plenty of fire during the second half, but they lacked the punch to put the ball over the goal line on several occasions."

The Bucs picked up eight first downs against the Lions' four for a total of 140 yards running to their opponents' 152. In the passing department, the locals showed more promise, completing five out of nine attempts for 57 yards, while the Lions picked up 36 yards on three completions out of nine attempts.

Newspapers consistently fight corruption and incompetence in government.

BUCS PREPARE FOR MEET WITH CARMEL HERE THIS AFTERNOON

Buc grid mentor Jim Muir is concentrating on whipping his second string men into shape to give the locals a little more depth for the Carmel game today. Muir is fairly well satisfied with the operation of the first team and has been concentrating on blocking for the first few days of the week. The second and third strings looked rough in scrimmage Monday, but picked up enough Tuesday so that Muir expects to have a little depth where he needs it most.

No changes have been made in starting lineups for the Carmel game, but Muir is grooming Dave Allen to back up the tackle position and plans to use Brentlinger, defensive line backer to fill in the guard spot. Larry Pereira and Tony Musladin, right and left half respectively, have impressed the Buc coach with their work and might see action in the coming contest.

Muir gave the boys drill against the deceptive T-formation which the Carmelites plan to use Friday. He expects the Carmel boys to show a fast wide open game with plenty of passing. Carmel has one win and one loss to their record this season, and Muir expects them to be no pushover, but stated that the Bucs will probably meet better teams this year.

"The boys are showing plenty of confidence for this one," he said, "but I hope they don't overlook Carmel for Lick on the 12th."

Main problem of the Bucs is the lack of depth in all positions. To overcome the lack of experienced players, the coaching staff has been working the second and third teams most of the week.

Muir has been giving the boys some drill in pass protection, but is placing the big emphasis in the aerial department on developing a smooth passing attack.

George Miskulin, line mentor for the Bucs, expressed great satisfaction over the showing of the center of the line in the contest with Lincoln last week. He stated his doubts about the strength in the end spots, though. "With the exception of one man, our first string ends are all we've got at present."

The Campbell gridmen will face a fast and deceptive team today when they run up against Carmel on the local field. The Carmelites have lost one and toppled the Coast High gridders 33-0. Comparative scores indicate that the Carmel team will use its T formation to the best in playing a deceptive wide open game. Jim Muir is expecting the Carmel boys to pepper the air above the Bucs but, aside from usual pass protection drill, has been cooking up little aerial attack with his own boys.

Biggest problem facing the locals is the lack of experienced second and third team players. Both the second and third teams have gone through extensive drills this week in an effort to work up some depth for the cinderella squad.

Muir considers the fumbles and lack of punch when needed most as the biggest contributors to last week's defeat at the hands of the Lions.

If you can forget that fatal first quarter, the locals looked impressive in the tilt. The second half was all Campbell. Muir's fears center around the fact that his boys are a little slow in starting this season and will meet an experienced team in Carmel.

The boys show lots of confidence but too much of that dangerous ingredient could lead to their downfall this afternoon.

Once again the writers are all yelling sloppy over the Stanford Indian's showing against State last Saturday and for once we'll have to agree with them. But its still the same old story of the slow starting boys from the farm. We can even remember back in the days when the Cards hit the Rose Bowl (how long ago has it been?) when they showed a few sloppy ones. And ever since Pappy appeared on the scene starters with a smooth, well operating team at the very first of the season.

The Bears found themselves last at Cal, the Bears have been fast week when they filled the air with passes over the heads of Penn. At last Pappy Waldorf has a passing team.

HOOP SQUADS SHOW SPEED, BALL HANDLING

Bert Robinson spent the week whipping his C and D hoop teams into shape for the tilt with Fremont last night. The D squad was seriously hampered by the loss of But Tuttle, first string center, who may be out for the remainder of the season due to injuries received in an auto accident. Robinson is grooming Nizawa to replace him. Starting lineups were Arnoud and Manriquez at the forward spots, Takaha and Hansen at Guards and Nizawa filling the center spot. Robertson was also looking favorably on Fair to fill in at center as well. He was expecting a little ragged play from the boys due to lack of game experience, but stated that the overall picture looked good with the team showing plenty of potentialities. Twenty-seven men have turned out for the D's although some of them may be disqualified when results of the weigh-ins are known

Robinson plans to use Hoover at center on the C's and Duarte and Sutterfield in the forward spots with Andrews and Horio as guards. The 120's have shown plenty of speed and lots of height. Robinson expects a good team with lots of potentialities if the weight classifications don't knock out some of his stars. Both Hoover and Duarte are right on the line in classifications and Sutterfield is dangerously near. The C's have plenty of depth with both Tokanaga and Sakamoto showing speed and ability in the forward spots and Yates showing as a possible for the center position.

Mrs. ANDREW BYKOWSKI, Rt. 2, Box 112, entertained Mrs. B. BYKOWSKI, Mr. and Mrs. D. NOVAK, and Mr. and Mrs. FRANK CUDECKI, all of Illinois, during the summer.

Track Readied For Auto Races

Santa Clara County Fairground one-mile dirt oval was being readied today for the 100-mile National AAA auto racing championship Sunday afternoon, October 21.

America's foremost pilots, all veterans of Indianapolis competition, are expected to enter the first AAA race in San Jose since 1933. The pilots have returned to the Pacific Coast following a spring and summer invasion of the east and mid-west. The San Jose race will mark their initial appearance in this section.

Nearly three weeks of continuous work will be necessary to place the track in shape for the nation's speediest and most costly race cars. Grading has already begun, and will be followed by chemical treatment to reduce the amount of dust.

The drivers, led by Tony Bettenhauser, current leader for the 1951 point championship, are expected to arrive within 10 days to look over the track. Most of them are in Los Angeles repairing their machines in preparation

A. F. SALCICCIA PROMOTED

Marine Private First Class Anthony F. Salciccia, 18, son of Mrs. Mary Salciccia, of 970 Walnut Drive, Campbell, was promoted to his present rank in San Diego recently when he completed his eight-week recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot.

First three weeks of the training period were spent learning basic fundamentals of small arms, first aid, field sanitation, map and compass reading, and infantry drill. Three weeks on the rifle range followed for the new Marine who learned the fundamentals of marksmanship, and fired for qualification with the Garand semi-automatic rifle.

Remainder of the "boot camp" training was devoted to learning additional subjects necessary to a Marine. These included such Phases as bayonet fighting, combat formations of a rifle squad, digging foxholes and a series of field problems where practical eperience was gained through the application of classroom work.

Following graduation from boot camp, the new Marine was given a ten-day furlough, following which he will be assigned to a regular unit of the Marine Corps.

SJS Drama Season Opens – 'Othello'

The San Jose State College Drama season will again present six major plays in the College Little Theater this year. This year the plays will open on Friday evenings instead of Thursday and will run five nights through Wednesday, omitting Sundays.

The first production of the year will be Shakespeare's "Othello," which will open on October 26. Laid in the 15th century, "Othello" calls for elaborate staging of scenes in Venice and the Isle of Cyprus.

The second offering of the 1951-52 season will be Ferenc Molnar's sophisticated comedy, "The Swan," scheduled for December 4 through 12. The play deals with a princess named Alexandra who falls in love with a commoner. The title of the play is derived from the fact that the swan like Alexandra is aristocratic. When the swan emerges from the water which is its habitat, however, it is nothing but a clumsy and ridiculous figure.

Sir James Barrie's "What Every Woman Knows," is slated for February. It is the story of Maggie Shand, who must never allow her husband to realize she is helping him, but must make him believe that it is own intelligence that gets him on his way.

The second play of the winter offering will be Professor James W. Clancy's own adaptation of Armand Salacrou's "Nights of Wrath." It was first produced in 1946 by Jean Louis Barault in Paris. The play is a document of the French Resistance.

The first play of the spring will be John van Druten's romantic comedy, "There's Always Juliet," which will open in April. The comedy concerns an attractive young English lady and her rapturous love for a handsome young American.
